A big victory was won by the city of La Crosse yesterday when, after hearing various views on the Rose street viaduct controversy, John H. Roemer, member of the railroad commission of Wisconsin, announced that the original order of the commission was entirely out of proportion, that he had learned facts that had not been presented to him at the original hearing held here, and that the commission would delve into the matter thoroughly in an effort to supply La Crosse with adequate crossing facilities at a cost not enormous or unfair.

This virtually means that the entire subject is reopened and that the commission will start an investigation into every detail of the matter and that when the order is made—probably in two or three months—it will be the result of careful research and study.

The evidence that made the commission see the alleged inequities of their original order is due in part to a matter of fact statement made by Alderman P. W. Mahoney but which, when quickly followed up by City Attorney J. E. Higbee, brought to light facts far different from those upon which the north side alderman had been basing his arguments for the Rose street viaduct as ordered by the commission originally.

Mahoney Starts Fireworks
Alderman Mahoney is said to have made the statement that the city's share of the cost of a viaduct at Rose street, as ordered by the commission, would not exceed $15,000.

"What did you gentlemen estimate the city's share of the expense to be?" immediately queried Attorney Higbee of the rate commission's engineers.

"Why we apportioned approximately $45,000 to the city," was the startling information.

Roemer Surprised
Immediately there was gasps of surprise from all parts of the council chamber, where the hearing was being held, and Mr. Roemer went so far as to say that in drawing the order he had no idea that the expense to the city was to be so great.

Further questioning, tending to prove the estimates of the commission's engineers resulted in the declaration that the matter would be reopened and gone into thoroughly.

It is estimated that the program for track elevation and a subway at Mill street with an overhead crossing at Caledonia street will cost in the neighborhood of $195,000. While this expense seems necessarily large it is important to know that the rate commissioner intimated that a portion of the cost may be assessed against the local street car company. In the original order to transfer their tracks to Rose street they were assessed nothing, the commission taking the stand that the cost of moving tracks from Mill to Rose street constituted their share.

Would Move Yards
Following the announcement that the matter would be reopened and an investigation started several plans were offered. One of these was for the moving of the Milwaukee rail-

MODISH BLONDE BEAUTY HOLDS UP CAFE AND MAKES HAUL OF $1,100

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—A blonde beauty, garbed in a close-fitting tailored suit that emphasized her charms, coolly held up an Italian cafe early today, and with the aid of a male companion escaped with jewels worth $1,000 and $100 in cash.

George Angelica, proprietor of the restaurant, was leaning on the bar talking to one of his helpers when the woman entered just before closing time and demanded a drink. Angelica turned for a wine glass and when he again faced the bar two revolvers covered him and the bartender. A rough looking man stood beside the girl, pointing the guns.

Angelica's hands reached for the ceiling. So did his bartender's and while her companion kept the two men covered, the girl removed the cafe proprietor's watch, a diamond stud and three diamond rings, and then emptied the cash register. She gathered her skirts about her and stepped to the door.

"Ta-ta," she laughed, and even Angelica admitted to the police that the smile was most bewitching.

The male bandit waited for five minutes. Then he fled and Angelica called the police. Detectives learned that an auto containing a man and woman sped away from in front of the cafe at about the time of the hold-up.

Mike McHugh Picks Up
Victims and Carries Them to the Lutheran Hospital in La Crosse

Melvin Halderson and Johnny Black, Holmen, Wis., are near death at the Lutheran hospital this afternoon as the result of an auto smash-up on the Onalaska road shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon when their car, a powerful touring machine, swerved from the smooth road and crashed into a telephone pole.

Ole L. Olson, also of Holmen, owes his escape from serious injury to the fact that he was in the tonneau of the car and braced himself before the crash came.

Halderson is a prominent lumberman and retired farmer of Holmen while Black is the son of prominent people there.

According to Olson's story the party had spent the day in La Crosse and were returning to Holmen. Halderson, the owner of the machine, had been driving. Black, an amateur autoist, requested an opportunity to drive the machine, a high powered car. Just after passing the Dominican Sisters' home on the Onalaska road, Halderson slowed down and changed seats permitting the younger man to drive.

The road at that point is an alluring one for the speeder and Black started out at a pace equally as fast as Halderson, an experienced driver, had been setting. Just north of the Dominican Sisters' home is a bad left turn in the road and just before it is a small depression in the highway due to recent rains. Black, according to Olson, swerved out to avoid the hole, and lost control of the car which crashed into the pole.

Both Black and Halderson were thrown clear of the car, over the windshield and hood, alighting several feet from the car in the ditch. Both were rendered unconscious. Olson who anticipated danger, had braced himself for the bad turn and succeeded in staying in the car.

Olson at once rushed to Onalaska, and told of the accident. He returned to the scene with Mike McHugh, picked up the injured men and rushed them at once to the Lutheran hospital in this city.

Black regained consciousness shortly before the hospital was reached and did not seem to be seriously injured. Halderson regained consciousness once, but immediately relapsed into a coma that leads physicians to believe that he is seriously injured.

Doctors are still working over the men at the hospital and up to 3:30 o'clock this afternoon would make no definite statement as to what the outcome of the accident would be.

It was admitted that Black's injuries are more serious than at first believed while Halderson's condition is very grave.

MISSOURI CORN FAILS

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 12.—Missouri's corn crop as a whole is a failure, according to D. H. Doane, professor of farm management at the University of Missouri.

"Corn prospects were never in a more deplorable condition in many sections of Missouri than they are now," he said.

SKINNER DROPS GAME

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—Coach Alonzo Stagg, famous purveyor of bear stories, is in Colorado on a vacation, but the first bear yarn of the western conference season drifted out of the University of Chicago athletic department today. Marion Skinner, star end of the 1912 Maroon eleven, will not return to college this fall because of the sudden death of his father.

LA FOLLETTE IS CENTER OF FIGHT

Democrats Willing to Give Wisconsin Senator What He Wants to Get His Vote for Tariff

IN DESPERATE STRAITS FOR VOTES

Majority Is But One and the Votes of Republican Progressives Are Needed for Security

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—The progressive republicans in the senate, led by Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, are the focal points of interest in the tariff fight today. The death of Senator Johnson has cut the democratic majority to one, and an illness or a bolt would leave them without the necessary majority to carry the bill.

Therefore overtures are being made to Senator La Follette and Senator Kenyon, Iowa, with a view to securing their support for the bill in return for concessions in certain schedules. It is understood the democrats will give Senator La Follette the changes he desires in the agricultural schedules and put aluminum on the free list, to satisfy Senator Kenyon.

The democrats are practically certain of the support of Senator Poinsett, the only regular bill moose member of the upper house.

With the inauguration of longer sessions of the senate today the members began their long delayed attempt to speed up the passage of the tariff bill. Instead of convening at noon, the upper house met at 11 o'clock. Democrats were cautioned against consuming any time in discussion. Even the senators in charge of the several schedules had determined to make no more than absolutely necessary response to the minorities attack.

Another possible recruit was conceded to be Senator Clapp. His protest against the present bill has been less against the rates than the methods by which it was produced. He insists that a satisfactory tariff could have been secured in less time by an open ballot on the floor upon each item, with no caucus rule. But he has not promised to vote against the pending measure. Senator Gronna is thought to be a possible supporter if the farmers are given a few concessions.

LEPROSY CURABLE

LONDON, Aug. 12.—That leprosy, one of the world's most dreaded diseases, is curable was the announcement made to the international congress of medicine today. Major E. R. Rost of the Indian medical service told the bacteriological section that four cases in India have been positively cured by a new vaccine method, and thirty cases now under treatment are progressing favorably.

CIRCUS TRAIN IN WRECK

RICHFIELD, Neb., Aug. 12.—Forty laborers with the Barnum & Bailey circus were injured when a Rock Island passenger train smashed into the rear end of the first section of the circus train here at 7 o'clock this morning. Seven circus men were so badly injured that they were rushed to Omaha for hospital care.

SEND BACK WILD MAN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—George Clark, the southpaw Griffith purchased from Frank Chance, has been sent back to Washington by the Atlanta club because of his wildness. Griffith has not decided what to do with the youngster. His case is like Boehlind's and the old fox thinks if he can place him where he can work enough he will develop.

Japan Ignores Diaz

TOKYO, Aug. 12.—It was announced today that the Japanese government will not receive General Felix Diaz, leader of the Mexican revolution that overthrew Madero. General Diaz now is on his way to Japan from San Francisco.

The reason officially stated for not receiving the visit of the Mexican special envoy is that the 'mikado is absent from Tokyo, being at a summer resort with his family.'

son and Secretary of State Bryan. Lind is in communication with Washington by code and is keeping his superiors informed. But until something material has been accomplished the public will not be advised.

Gamboa Friendly

The friendly attitude assumed by Frederico Gamboa, new minister of foreign relations, has helped very much. He was prepared to receive a visit from Nelson O'Shaughnessy, American charge d'affaires, in the immediate future, possibly today. O'Shaughnessy will acquaint Gamboa with the fact that this government is extremely desirous of seeing Mexican affairs restored to a stable basis. He will point out our absolute disinterestedness in the premises. And he will also explain to the foreign minister just the status of Envoy Lind.

Open Way to Discussion

The best that can be hoped for as the result of the first conference between O'Shaughnessy and Gamboa is the establishment of friendly relations. It will open the way for general negotiations later. And it will also make it possible for Lind and Gamboa and even Huerta himself to meet later on for a personal talk.

O'Shaughnessy is regarded by the state department as the one man in the diplomatic service who is qualified to deal with Huerta and officials give him credit for persuading the Mexican president to modify his recent inflammatory utterances against the United States and John Lind.

There was much mystery here today over the report that General Felix Diaz, accredited by Huerta as a special ambassador to Japan, would not be received in Tokyo. The reason assigned, that the mikado is spending the summer away from the capital, is accepted as a diplomatic suggestion that Diaz is not wanted.

As a matter of fact the Japanese foreign office out-did itself in its welcome to George W. Guthrie, the new American ambassador. He was received in the capital with almost regal honors, being escorted from his hotel to the palace by a regiment of seasoned Japanese troops.

It was thought here that this was Japan's way of expressing its disapproval of the attempt by the Huerta government to use Japan as a club to force recognition from this government.

PELLAGRA SPREADS

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 12.—In a letter to members of the Mississippi delegation in congress urging the adoption of measures to protect the south against the shipment of unfit corn products from western states, Dr. G. H. Galloway, secretary of the state board of health, states that incomplete statistics show 1253 cases of pellagra reported in Mississippi for a period of six months ending June 30, resulting in 267 deaths from this disease.

DENVER, Col., Aug. 12.—With the most spectacular parade Denver has witnessed in years, the thirty-second triennial convocation of the Grand Commandery of Knights Templar opened here today. Between 25,000 and 30,000 knights in dress uniform were in the line of march. Every state in the union was represented. More than 175,000 residents and visitors witnessed the brilliant spectacle. The parade, composed of fifteen divisions was led by Most Eminent Sir William Melish, supreme grand master of the grand encampment of America and of the supreme great priory of Canada. The head of the procession entered the stadium at 10 o'clock and it was after noon when the last division had passed into the big amphitheater. There were fifty-four bands in line. The stadium, built to seat 30,000 spectators, was filled.

Encampment Opens
The grand encampment was formally opened this afternoon at 2:30 in El Jebel temple with addresses of welcome by Governor Ammons, Mayor J. M. Perkins and Cornelius J. Hart, grand commander of Colorado. Grand Master Melish responded for the visitors. Following these formalities the public was excluded while the encampment went into executive session. During three days secret sessions will be held twice daily.

The court of honor on Champa street will be formally opened tonight by Grand Master Melish. The court extends four blocks and the local convocation spent $50,000 on the lighting and decorations. At one end of the court is the figure of a knight on horseback and at the other a representation of a Colorado sunset done in multi-colored lights. Between the two are forty-eight illuminated columns, one for each state grand commandery. Scores of powerful searchlights will be played on the court of honor during the festivities. Throughout the city are dozens of illuminations representing scenes famous in Templar history.

City Is Full

The triennial committee in charge of the arrangements announced today that all the hotels and boarding houses are "packed jam full" of visitors. Not only that, but more than 4,000 knights are quartered in their Pullman cars which have been parked in the various yards. All of these trains will remain here until Friday morning.

A feature of this afternoon's festivities will be a parade by the fifty-five bands attending the convocation, which will be massed and march through the streets playing "Onward, Christian Soldiers."

ATTACK McADOO

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Another cabinet officer, this time Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, was attacked today in the house. Having finished last week with Attorney General McReynolds, the republicans today turned their shafts upon the secretary of the treasury.

McAdoo's charge that there had been "concerted action by New York banks to 'depress United States two per cent bonds, in an effort to defeat the administration's currency reform program' caused the attack. Republican Leader Mann dramatically called upon the secretary to resign if he could not back up his charges with proof.

UNKNOWN AVIATOR DIES

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 12.—A daring aviator is believed to have perished in Lake Erie about two miles out from Port Dover. What seemed to be a modern air craft was observed out over the lake, bearing almost directly upon Port Dover. Several people saw it and were watching it from one of the cottages when it appeared suddenly to collapse and disappeared.

TO START BILL SOON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Democratic Leader Underwood today announced in the house that consideration of the "administration" currency reform bill would be begun in the house next Monday or Tuesday, if the democratic currency caucus concludes by Friday.

STAGE IS SET TO IMPEACH SULZER

Resolution Based on Find-tee Called Up in New York Assembly

Sulzer Said to Be Prepared to Refuse to Recognize Action by Legislature

Governors Impeached
Seth Sothell, Colony of North Carolina, 1869, removed.
Charles Robinson, Kansas, 1862, acquitted.
Harrison Reed, Florida, 1868, charges dropped.
William W. Holden, North Carolina, 1870, removed.
Powell Clayton, Arkansas, 1871, charges dropped.
Davis Butler, Nebraska, 1871, removed.
Henry C. Varnum, Louisiana, 1872, term expired and proceedings dropped.
Adelbert Ames, Mississippi, 1876, resigned.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Having failed to muster enough strength to impeach Governor Sulzer, the Tammany leaders of the assembly, after waiting four hours, announced at 3 o'clock this afternoon that no attempt would be made to call the assembly to order until 8:30 tonight. This means that the impeachment resolution will be acted upon about midnight or perhaps later, if the strength of Governor Sulzer is mustered for the night session.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 12.—With Governor Sulzer about to be impeached when the Tammany-controlled extraordinary legislature reconvenes today, New York state faces the unique possibility of having two rival governors. By the state constitution, the lieutenant governor, Martin H. Glynn, becomes acting governor automatically when the resolution of impeachment passes, and he remains acting governor until the end of the trial. Should the governor be vindicated, he resumes office. Should he be ousted, the lieutenant governor fills out the term.

Will Ignore Action
Friends of Governor Sulzer say that he refuses to recognize the authority of the extraordinary legislature to impeach him and will ignore its action, should Murphy be successful in today's test of strength.

When the assembly met today, the Levy resolution calling for the impeachment of Sulzer was called up and one of the bitterest political and legal fights in the history of New York was precipitated. Never before did the state of New York try to impeach a governor and that it will be a fight to a finish is admitted on both sides.

There was a tense moment last night when the clerk read the concluding paragraph of the resolution, as follows:

"Therefore, be it resolved, that William Sulzer, governor of the state of New York be and hereby is impeached for wilful and corrupt conduct in office and for high crimes and misdemeanors."

Recite Evidence

The first paragraphs of the resolution which was introduced by Mr. Aaron J. Levy, Tammany leader in the assembly, set forth the findings of the Frawley committee, reciting the evidence taken in New York, that Sulzer returned a false sworn statement of his campaign expenditures, and that he converted campaign contributions to his private use, by using the money to play the stock market. It was further charged that he misused the power of his office to punish his opponents.

The absence of Tammany members, making the anti-Sulzer forces uncertain of their power, caused a considerable delay in the meeting of the assembly. The session was scheduled for 11 a. m., but at one o'clock this afternoon there had been no call to order.

TO OFFER ARBITRATION

CALUMET, Mich., Aug. 12.—Judge Alfred J. Murphy, of Detroit, Governor Ferris' personal representative in the copper strike district, this afternoon will make formal demand upon the miners and operators that they mediate their differences. The Western Federation of Miners will eagerly accept. James MacNaughton, vice president and general manager of the Calumet & Hecla property, will flatly refuse.

RASMUSSEN TO CALL A MEETING

If Interpretation Is Adverse La Crosse County Association Will Fight
the Regulations

La Crosse sportsmen may shoot ducks only from Nov.
1 to Jan. 1.

This is a provision of the regulations adopted by the United States department of agriculture under the new federal law governing the shooting of migratory birds if the word "shores" is given the usual interpretation including all the space upon the river within the high water limits. The rule affects all counties along the Mississippi river.

In legal phraseology "shores" has been held to mean all the space within high water limits. There has been no other official construction of the word. If this definition applies to the duck shooting law, no shooting excepting from Nov. 1 to Jan. 1 can be had on any of the sloughs and bayous and marsh land—the only duck feeding grounds, in La Crosse and other river counties.

As the approach of winter ordinarily ends the duck season in this latitude early in November, the regulation amounts practically to a prohibition of duck shooting in La Crosse county and other counties along the Mississippi.

While there is little doubt that the regulation was meant to apply in this adverse manner, there may be an opportunity to have it revised, as the secretary of agriculture has announced that hearings on the fairness of the regulations "will be granted."

Will Seek Relief
John P. Bird, president of the Wisconsin Fish and Game Protective and Propagation association, has written the department for an official interpretation of the regulations, suggesting its inequitable character so far as this section is concerned. The president has also asked when and where a hearing may be had.

In case the department interprets the regulations to include all the low-lying land and sloughs within the high water area along the Mississippi, Dr. Rasmussen, president of the La Crosse County Game and Fish Protective association, will call a meeting to discuss ways and means of securing a hearing and presenting the protest of the river counties.

The regulations as adopted were based upon the theory that the Mississippi, Ohio and Missouri rivers mark well and closely defined lines of migration for ducks, and that the birds should be protected in their regular roadways during the periods of migration, both spring and fall. Regulation 5, covering this point, reads as follows:

"A CLOSED SEASON SHALL CONTINUE BETWEEN JAN. 1 AND OCT. 31 both dates inclusive, of each year, on all migratory birds passing over or at rest on any of the waters of the main streams of the following navigable rivers, to wit: MISSISSIPPI RIVER BETWEEN NEW ORLEANS, LA., AND MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.; the Ohio river between its mouth and Pittsburgh, Pa., and the Missouri river between its mouth and Bismarck, N. D.; and on the killing or capture of any of such birds on or over the shores of any said rivers, or at any point within the limits aforesaid from any boat, raft or other device, floating or otherwise, in or on any such waters."

Frame Strong Argument
President Bird, who by long study has acquired thorough knowledge of the lines of migration for game birds, has assembled facts which sportsmen believe will present a strong argument for a radical change in the rule, the chief point being that these birds do follow these rivers generally in the spring move-

DEATH RATE HAS SLIGHT INCREASE

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 12.—(Special.)—An annual death rate of 11.9 per thousand in Wisconsin is shown in the quarterly report on mortality issued by the state bureau of vital statistics. During April, May and June, 7,215 deaths were reported by the various local registrars. The rate of 11.9 per thousand is compared with 11.8 for 1912, 11.7 for 1911, 11.6 for 1910, 12.2 for 1909, and 11.4 for 1908. From this it is evident the rate for three months in 1913 is higher than the average for the five preceding years except that for 1909.

There is practically no increase in the number of deaths from the various communicable diseases with the exception of other forms of tuberculosis, diphtheria and meningitis. The increase for each of these diseases is only slight and cannot account for the very appreciable increase in the total number of deaths reported as compared with previous years.

Getting Results.

"Not much. I use that instead of a police whistle."
"Why not have a police whistle?"

OLD MAN STARTS TO ROW TO GULF

EAU CLAIRE, Wis., Aug. 12.—Henry A. Hawley of this city, aged 64, left here this morning by boat down the Chippewa river, his destination being the Gulf of Mexico. This will be his fourth trip down the Chippewa and Mississippi rivers. He has gone as far as the gulf once, another time to Baton Rouge, La., and once to St. Louis. His trip to the gulf, made in 1911, took four months. He expects to make better time this time. He has two boats both made by him.

Precautions of Old Time Doctors.
It was formerly the practice among physicians to carry a cane having a hollow head, the top of which was gold, pierced with holes like a pepper box. The top contained a small amount of aromatic powder or of snuff, and on entering the house or room where a disease supposed to be infectious prevailed the doctor would strike his cane on the floor to agitate the powder and then apply it to his nose; hence all the old points of physicians represent them with canes to their noses.

Timely Caution.
"The nurse is a suffragette."
"Well, ask her to say nothing on the subject of votes for women in the hearing of baby. Baby wants too many things already that are out of her reach."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

TWENTY GOVERNORS TO BE AT KEOKUK

Heads of States East of the Mississippi Will Witness Opening of Regatta

KEOKUK, Iowa, Aug. 12.—It is practically assured that twenty governors of states east of the Mississippi river will stop off at Keokuk August 25th to view the water power development here, enroute to the governors' conference at Colorado Springs.

The western conference opens on the 26th, the day set for the official opening of the water power, and for that reason most of the governors could not arrange to stay over a day at Keokuk. Arrangements were made, however, to open the works for the inspection of the party a day early.

Governors of Iowa, Illinois and Missouri will probably be in Keokuk during the entire three days of the Mississippi Valley power boat races.

A few days ago the big power dam was illuminated with big arc lights for its entire length, for the first time. When the entire illuminating system is turned on the whole surrounding territory is made almost as bright as day and from the adjoining hills the scene resembles a great torch light procession of giants. This illumination will be one of the evening features of the regatta program.

DOCKERS RETURN STRIKE BROKEN

DULUTH, Minn., Aug. 12.—With the return of numerous work handlers who resumed work yesterday, it is thought that the dock strike is broken.

The places of those formerly employed not yet returned to work were to be filled by strike breakers. President McConagie of the Missabe railroad expressed himself as pleased with the outlook. Several hundred men, both in Duluth and Superior, are still idle because of the strike.

CAUGHT IN FIRE CRIPPLE IS KILLED

SIoux FALLS, S. D., Aug. 12.—While the other members of the family were visiting at the home of a neighbor, an old man named Nord, who was so helplessly crippled that he could not escape, was burned to death on Saturday in a fire that destroyed the farmhouse of B. H. Lilliehaug in Jerauld county.

The late David Christie Murray on one occasion told the story of the champion printer's error of his experience to this effect:

"I wrote at the close of the story of 'Grace Forbearance': 'Are there no troubles now?' the lover asks. 'Not one, dear Frank, not one.' And then, in brackets, thus [] I set the words [White line]. This was a technical instruction to the printer and meant that one line of space should be left clear. The genius who had the copy in hand put the lover's speech in type correctly and then, setting it out as if it were a line of verse, he gave me:

"Not one, dear Frank, not one white line!"

A Good Performer.
"Say, dad, I'm writing an essay on a man who held the chairs of botany, meteorology, physiology, chemistry and entomology in a small college. Would you refer to such a man simply as professor?"

"No, Johnnie. I'd call a man who could hold as many chairs as that an acrobat."—Woman's Home Companion.

Morris Was Explosive.
On one occasion when William Morris was painting an Italian model, in Red Lion street, London, some one called at the door. Morris left his painting, and presently his model heard him furiously anathematizing. When he returned he was in a tremendous rage, rushing about the room like a madman. In a moment he took a flying kick at the door and smashed in a panel. The model, in fright, started to flee, but Morris turned toward him, the rage suddenly evaporating, and said genially: "It's all right—it's all right! Something had to give way." The painting was then resumed.—"William Morris—A Study in Personality."

A NEEDED LESSON

By GRACE KERRIGAN

(Copyright, 1913, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

When Miss Lionel Trenton was in love with Mr. Hugh Rexford her father said to her one day:

"Mr. Rexford has one trait I wish he did not possess."

"Is it a bad one?" was asked.

"I think he is very stubborn."

"Well, you and mother say that I am."

"You surely are, and therein lies the danger if you wed Rexford. Two stubborn natures are sure to bring about a clash."

"I think Hugh loves me well enough to give me my way in most things," said the daughter in tones of trust and confidence.

"Yes, just now, but how about later on?"

"Father, you are a dear, old, gray-headed man, and you are over-anxious about me. You needn't be, however. Everything will be just lovely! I know two different girls that married stubborn men, and they have never had the least trouble. They tell me that their husbands delight in giving up to them."

The father smiled and turned to his paper. What use? Love sees the roses but not the thorns.

And Hugh Rexford's mother said to him:

"My son, Miss Trenton is a very nice girl, but I've got a criticism to make."

"You can't have, mother—not a single one," he replied.

"She's got a stubborn disposition."

"She can't have."

"But her friends say so."

"And you anticipate we shall quarrel?"

"It can't be otherwise unless you let her have her own way."

"There will be no quarreling, mother. We are both too loving and sensible for that. Of course, Lionel will have her opinion about this and that, as every woman has a right to have, but it will be for me to decide any question of moment."

"But if she refuses to surrender her opinion?"

"Why find lions in the path where there are none, mother? I don't want one with opinions! If she is wrong on a question I shall take great pleasure in discussing it and showing her where she is wrong."

The mother smiled and sighed.

The marriage took place, and the newlyweds were very happy for a time. If Hugh said the sky was green, then green it was. At least the young wife, who knew it was blue, didn't dispute his color. If she decided that the piano looked better in the southwest corner of the parlor he accepted her decision without a word.

Both firmly meant to avoid a clash that would bring out their stubbornness, and for a year things went very well. They did not bring up religion, politics or the color of the cat's eyes, and at the end of the year the bride said:

"Father was over here for awhile today, and when I laughed at the prediction he made just before our wedding he didn't know what to say."

"What did your father predict?"

"That we would clash and neither of us give up."

"That's funny. Mother made the same prediction."

"But we have not clashed."

"They would have lived together a lifetime and not disputed as to whether a rabbit had a longer tail, the fox could catch him a minute sooner, or the height and weight of Adam as he stood in the Garden of Eden waiting for Eve to come along and keep her date."

There must be something more momentous than that. It was coming and was very close at hand, but they did not see the shadow.

One morning at breakfast the wife remarked as she sipped her coffee:

"Hugh, do coffee and tea grow on the same trees?"

"Neither grows on a tree, dear. Coffee grows on a bush and tea grows on a shrub."

"I think you are wrong about that."

"I can't be. I know a fellow in a tea and coffee house."

"But some one may have deceived."

BREAKS NECK IN TWO FOOT DIVE

MENOMINEE, Mich., Aug. 12.—Bernard Nyland, 19 years old, broke his neck Sunday afternoon, while diving in water two feet deep off the Lakeside summer resort. He died one hour later in the hospital. The accident was witnessed by 2,000 merry-makers.

Proper Time Now Is to Peel Off Soiled Skin

(From Beauty Mirror.)
Those who abhor sticky, greasy, shiny, streaked complexions should religiously avoid creams, powders and rouges these heated days. There's no need for them, anyway, since the virtues of mercerized wax have become known. No amount of perspiration will produce any evidence that you've been using the wax. As it is applied at bedtime and washed off in the morning, the complexion never looks like a make-up. Mercerized wax gradually takes off a bad complexion, instead of adding anything to make it worse. It has none of the disadvantages of cosmetics and accomplishes much more in keeping the complexion beautifully white, satiny and youthful. Just get an ounce of it at your druggist's and see what a few days' treatment will do. Use like cold cream.
Another effective summer treatment—heat tending to cause wrinkles and flabbiness—is a skin-tightener made by dissolving 1 oz. powdered saxolite in ½ pt. witch hazel. Its use (as a face bath) leaves no trace.—Advertisement.

The Minister Talked to Him About It.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

The Man In The Moon and His Little Friends.

THE man in the moon was shining down very agreeably. Jack and Evelyn had pointed him out to daddy for about the hundredth time. Sometimes they thought he was frowning, sometimes they thought he looked sad, and sometimes they thought he was smiling. Daddy could never see any difference in his expression, though, of course, being the right kind of a daddy, he did not say so.

The man in the moon, as perhaps you may have heard, carries a bundle of sticks over his shoulder. If you think so please do not mention it to Jack and Evelyn should you meet them. They will look at you in surprise and pity your ignorance. They believe that the man in the moon carries a bag over his shoulder.

You see, one night as they were pointing out the man in the moon to daddy they asked him what the man had on his shoulder, and daddy replied:

"Why, a bag, of course. It was this way: The man in the moon lives all by himself. He is a lonely widower or old bachelor or something like that and has neither wife nor chicks to take care of him."

"The man in the moon has two companions. One of these is a tame rabbit and the other a dog. Sometimes you can make these out on the face of the moon when the moon cannot be seen there."

"The little tame rabbit is very useful to the man in the moon. He does chores for him and sometimes runs errands. The little Japanese children say the tame rabbit grinds rice. They have believed this and talked about it for hundreds of years, so, of course, it must be so. This rice is no doubt to make rice cakes for the luncheon, dinner or tea of the man in the moon. There is, of course, plenty of green cheese for the man in the moon, but he gets tired of it. That is the reason he came down to get some cold plum porridge."

"The dog is not much use to the man in the moon. He is a hunting dog, the man was too fond of hunting rabbits. He even hunted them on Sunday, and when the minister or somebody talked to him about it the man wished he were in the moon or some place where he could hunt rabbits in peace. And now he is there and just bates rabbit hunting. If he were not good to the little tame rabbit now it would not be so fond of him."

"Oh, yes; about the bag? The moon man has nobody to carry the rice home for the little rabbit to grind for their rice cakes. The dog won't carry it home on his back, for it keeps him busy looting over the edge of the moon barking back at the dogs on earth who bark up at him whenever they see the moon shining in the sky. So the man has to carry it himself."

The small boy's estimate of the religious state of the churches is obtained by comparing the quality and quantity of lemonade served at the Sunday school picnics.

From the character of the stuff
the magazines print in summer nowadays, the old time love story seems to be rejected as heavy literature.

WHY THE CHINESE
STILL ARE FIGHTING

Pessimism regarding the new Chinese republic is hardly justified by citing the fact that there is "already a new revolution" in the southern provinces against the government of which Yuan Shih Kai is the head.
If we read the current records correctly the present struggle really is the continuation of the work done
by those leaders who all along have insisted on having a purely popular government rather than any form of despotism, even when covered with a shell of democracy. That Dr. Sun Yen Sen, the leading patriot of the Chinese of today indorses the present rebellion seems proof that it must have a valid cause back of it.

It is to be remembered that the Chinese provinces never have had complete unity, in the sense that Americans understand it. Even the old dynastic system was not much more than a loose confederation.
Modern ideas are strongest in the south. The north was compelled to line up with the republican movement against its will; there the ruling Manchus have been most powerful.

Dr. Sen magnanimously declined the presidency in the hope that Yuan Shih Kai, though of reactionary temper, would cement all factions
and in time would establish the new form of constitutional government.
Today it looks as if Yuan Shih Kai
had decided to become in republican China what Diaz was in Mexico, a military dictator. He apparently has had little faith in the parliament, which, though in session four months, has done nothing of consequence. The authority and method of electing the president and other vital matters have not been settled.

With no leaders appearing in parliament, Yuan Shih Kai has been running the finances himself. He has appointed governors in provinces which had elected such officers by popular vote and in other ways has shown that he believes himself to be the real ruler. Japan is accused of secretly fomenting trouble in order to get control of the northern mines. Dr. Sen and those with him may yet save the situation; if not,

there may be a new southern republic in conflict with a northern despotism before the issue is decided.

THOUGHTS ON THE PASSING OF WILLIAM RUFUS FINCH

The death of Hon. William Rufus Finch brought to La Crosse people a sense of shock—as from the loss of a presence deemed essential and permanent—and despite the fact that for a number of years he has taken no active part in city affairs his demise
awakens those emotions that accompany municipal bereavement.

Older citizens, who were "in the harness" with Mr. Finch when he enjoyed the prime of his activity and influence, no doubt will sense the lack of intimacy in these reflections
over our esteemed dead; however the characteristics of this unusual man have left their positive impression even upon those to whom, following, it was not given to be personally associated with him.

It has been frequently suggested that Mr. Finch was the "most mysterious" of La Crosse's distinguished citizens. No doubt this was due to his reserve rather than to anything unfathomable or unapproachable in his personality. He was not a man of idle words; in public he loosed
his tongue only when he had in mind something worth saying. The thought of him loosely unbosoming his private affairs defies conception; it was his nature that he could no more invite sympathy than wear it on his sleeve.

In his public aspect he was reticent and stern; but let it not be presumed that the austerity with which he faced his world was the expression of a forbidding spirit, for beneath his autocratic exterior there lay friendship, always discriminating, but mellowed with kindness for those who won access to the exclusive sanctuary of his affections. Let no man judge him for his severity until in the evidence upon which opinion is based there is written the testimony of some close friend relating the warmth and charm of his communion with those with whom he elected to share his confidences. If the historian characterizes Mr. Finch as "un-bending" the criticism is not adverse.
Truly he was unbending in defense of what he believed to be right. Perhaps this was his most vital quality
—certainly it contributed to the strength of the powerful organization which created the political career of Hon. John C. Spooner. Indeed, while Mr. Finch belonged to that old school of politicians to un-horse whom the fight of the progressives was made, he of all our politicians most resembled the progressive leader, Senator La Follette, in his uncompromising championship of the principles in which he believed.

As a foe it could never be said that Mr. Finch did not "bear that the opposed shall beware of thee." In keeping with journalistic methods
of his time, his editorial was given to invective that today would be deemed intemperate, but its vigor
and daring gave his newspaper place
and influence in the press of Wisconsin. His enmity was a thing to reckon with; his friendship, while far from effusive, always stood the acid test. As a publisher he was aggressive, as a politician he was keen and militant. In these things he typified the best traits of his school,
and his party's appreciation of his unswerving service came in the form of an appointment to a diplomatic trust in which, as in his private affairs, he gave his best efforts to the duties which devolved upon him.

Local history will never grow so dim that the name of "Finch" is not legible in its pages, La Crosse will never grow so great that his place in its foundations will not be conspicuous. A strong, intelligent man, his life, perhaps not fully appreciated because open to the intimacy of but a small circle outside his immediate family, exerted a positive influence for good upon a community in which wrongdoers lived in wholesome fear
of his penetrating vision and fearless pen.

Niagara Falls is proving such a permanent attraction that it will probably never have to get out and play the one-night stands.

Going (Hic), Going (Hic),—Gone
The auctioneer was trying to dispose of an ornamental clock which he held aloft for inspection. He had run the bidding up to $3 when, asking for three and a half, he saw a small man in the background nod.

"Three and a half I have—who'll give me four?"
Again the man nodded.

"Four—four—who'll give me four-fifty?"
Another nod.

"Four and a half—who'll give me five?"
Again the man was seen to nod.

"Sold—to the man in the brown suit."
"But," protested the man, "I didn't bid on it!"

"Then why did you keep nodding
your head?" growled the exasperated auctioneer.

"I couldn't help it, sir," came the apologetic reply; "I had the hiccoughs."

Unjust Criticism
A storm was brewing in Bill Jones'
back yard.

"It's too much of a good thing,
Liz," he yelled. "I've told yer before I won't have the kids bringin'
the coals from the shed in my best at!"

"Wot 'ud you say, I'd like ter know?"

With arms akimbo, his better half sauntered into the cabbage patch.

"Look 'ere, Bill," she said coldly,
"stop chinning a mint. You've spilt
the shape of that there 'at already with yer funny 'ead; and, as yer work coal all day long at the wharf, what does that little extra bit of dust in yer 'at matter? Yer wants somethin' ter talk about!"

"Taint really the dust I object
to. But I wears that 'at of heaven's!"
responded the infuriated one, "and,
if I takes it off me 'ead when I'm out
it leaves a black band 'round me for-
'ead. An', a course, I gets accused of 'washin' me face w' me 'at on'!"

His Advice
The portly lady had accidentally taken a rear seat in a surface car reserved for smokers. With unconcealed indignation she watched the man beside her fill his pipe.

"Sir," finally came her frigid tones, "smoking always makes me feel sick."

"Does it now ma'am?" said the man as he carefully lighted up.
"Then take my advice an' quit smoking."

Health Misery
An old lady, really well, was always complaining and "enjoying poor health," as she expressed it.

Her various ailments were to her the most interesting topic in the world.
One day a neighbor found her eating a hearty meal, and asked her how she was.

"Poor me!" she sighed. "I feel very well, but I always feel bad when I feel well, because I know I am going to feel worse afterward."

Advice to Those Who Have Lung Trouble

Pulmonary Lung Trouble is said to be curable by simply living in the open air and taking an abundance of fresh eggs and milk. Do all you possibly can to add to strength and increase weight; eat wholesome, nourishing food, and breathe the cleanest
and purest air, and then, if health and strength do not return, add the tonic
and beneficial effects of Eckman's Alternative. Read what it did in this case:

Wilmington, Del.
"Gentlemen: In January, 1908, I was taken with hemorrhages of the lungs. I took eggs and milk in quantities, but I got very weak. Mr. C. A.
Lippincott, my employer (Lippincott
& Co., Department Store, 306 to 314
Market street, Wilmington, Del.), recommended to me Eckman's Alternative, and upon his suggestion I began taking it at once. This was about June, 1908. I continued faithfully, using no other remedy, and finally noticed the clearing of the lungs. I firmly believe Eckman's Alternative saved my life."

(Affidavit) JAS. SQUIRES.
(Above abbreviated; more on request.)

Eckman's Alternative has been proven by many years' test to be most efficacious in cases of severe throat
and Lung Affections, Bronchitis, Bronchial Asthma, Stubborn Colds
and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain narcotics, poisons or habit-forming drugs. For sale by G. E.
Mariner, Chas. Beyersberg and other leading druggists. Write the Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for booklet telling of recoveries and additional evidence.

MARGERY MAUDE IS COMING TO AMERICA

Margery Maude.

Miss Margery Maude, the daughter of Cyril Maude and his wife, and a very accomplished young actress, will be seen in America for the first time during the coming theatrical season. In the fall, when her father comes here for his first American starring tour, she will play the heroines in a number of his plays.
She will be little Minna grown up in "Rip Van Winkle," Maria in "The School for Scandal," and the leading lady in "The Second in Command."
"Beauty and the Beast," "The Toy-maker of Nuremberg," and other Cyril Maude successes.

IN THE WORLD
OF WOMEN

Miss Nettie Liepe of Chicago, makes the planning and designing of electric signs her business, and is responsible for many ingenious
flash signs, which attract attention in various parts of the country. She earns $200 a month.

As a result of the campaign started by club women of Ogden, Utah, 2500 boys and girls in the city have gardens in which they raise both flowers and vegetables. The women have given talks to the children on gardening and "bird preservation," and aroused interest by offering prizes for successful work.

A Woman's Clinic for the dissemination of knowledge relating to sex hygiene is to be established in Chicago by Dr. Julia Holmes Smith and other leading club women.

James A. Patten, an Evanston millionaire, recently gave $5000 to the Evanston (Ill.) Women's club in accordance with a promise made some years ago. He has contributed about $25,000 to the organization for its handsome $70,000 clubhouse, which was recently opened.

The banana is believed by some people to be the forbidden fruit which is mentioned in the story of the Garden of Eden. In any case, it is one of the curiosities of the vegetable kingdom,
being not a tree, a palm, a bush or shrub, a vegetable or a herb, but an herbaceous plant with the stature of a tree. Although it sometimes attains a height of thirty feet, there is no woody fiber in any part of the structure, and the bunches growing on the dwarf banana plant are often heavier than the stalk which supports them. No plant gives such a quantity of food to the acre as the banana. It yields forty-four times more by weight than the potato and 133 times more than wheat.

West Point Cadets.
From the day the cadets at West Point shed their citizen clothes until they emerge four years later they are paid a salary by Uncle Sam, and they must live on it. There are no frills bought with outside funds, no automobiles or polo ponies. At no other school in America except the Annapolis Naval academy is democracy so much enforced as at West Point.

Shedding tears over spilled milk

THE RED BUTTON

By Will Irwin

CHAPTER XVI.
A Stroke of Luck.

We come now to the most crowded and significant day in all the crowded life of Rosalie Le Grange.
When she told of it afterward to the only person who ever enjoyed her full confidence, she gave but a narrative of flashes and snatches—a pertinent fact, out of its context,
at one session, a state of emotion at another. Rosalie was logical and consecutive only when the long slow road of reason would serve her purpose better than the short cut of intuition. But, indeed, there is in this world hardly a mind so logical and consecutive, so cool and precise, as to be equipped for following closely and recording accurately a course
such as Rosalie followed that day.
Can you remember exactly what happened, all details in order, on the night when you found the burglar in your room, the day when you were injured in the train wreck?
Multiply such dramatic incident on dramatic incident, such emotional crisis on emotional crisis—and small wonder that Rosalie could never weave a consecutive narrative.

We begin, indeed, with Rosalie Le Grange out of the stage picture. We are in the office of the Thomas W.
North Advertising Agency in lower Fifth Avenue. Tommy North sits at a cheap but neat desk, brand-new like all the furnishings of that little old office. He is laboring for an accurate and arresting headline to proclaim the safety, and yet the deadliness, of a new automatic revolver. At the typewriter desk in the corner sits Betsy-Barbara Lane, inexpertly tapping the keys with two fingers of her right hand and one of her left. And as Betsy-Barbara smiles triumphantly over this fair
line, frowns at that foul one, purses
her lips over the other hard combination, her radiance fills and illuminates the Thomas W. North Advertising Agency.

From inception to interior furnishings, it is all Betsy-Barbara.
Hers was the choice and placing of the green Mission furniture. Hers was the selection of the pictures,
their arrangement in relation to the wall spaces. That it might be a pleasant place for work, she picked out prints of her favorite pictures—
the Countess Potolka, the Baby Stuart and the Duchess of Devonshire. To give it a business air, she added a framed photograph of the Union Station in St. Louis. Further, Betsy-Barbara found the most spectacular specimens of advertising design executed by Thomas W. North, set them in passe-partouts with her own hands, and hung them just where they would invite the eye and confidence of customers. She remembered also the soul needs of Mr. Thomas W. North himself. In the interstices of the decorations
she placed such mottoes as "Do It Now," "Industry is Happiness," and, most significant of all to one who understood the reason for the Thomas W. North Agency, "It's What You Do After Business Hours
That Gives You Nervous Prostration." Finally, to all these decorations she had added more and more frequently of late her own illuminated self.

For life, what time she was not busy with the solace of Constance,
hung heavy nowadays on the capable hands of Betsy-Barbara. Just when she realized that what she needed was work, she found that the correspondence of the Thomas W. North Agency was getting greater than Tommy himself could handle. She announced at once her intention of learning the typewriter
and doing that work herself—all for the good of the enterprise. To this proposal, Tommy entered a protest of conscience; but the thought that he would see Betsy-Barbara in office hours as well as out rendered it very feeble. So Betsy-Barbara went to work on the second-hand typewriter; and she had so far progressed that she could write a pas-sably good business letter in four attempts and a morning's time.

On this scene of brisk business activity suddenly entered Rosalie Le Grange. As she stepped into the door, she was large-eyed, serious, aquiver with inner intensity. She broke into a smile, however, as she surveyed the Thomas W. North Advertising Agency at work. Both Tommy and his amateur stenographer had heard the steps; but each, as people will do when they are intent, failed to look up from his uncompleted line until startled
by Rosalie's.

"My! Such a pair of little workers!"

Tommy grinned.
"Ah, a customer!" he said; "busi-

I recommend our A A Campaign—

"No, thank you," replied Rosalie, dimpling upon him. And then, with the air of one who has no time to waste in airy persiflage, "I'm here on business, though, Mr. North. I want to borrow the services of your stenographer for a day."

"Me?" inquired Betsy-Barbara.
"You," replied Rosalie Le Grange.
She turned back to Tommy North
then; and the flash of her dimples
disarmed any possible resentment.

"Mr. North, haven't you got five or ten minutes of business some-

"Oh, certainly," replied Tommy North, rising and reaching for his coat.

"It ain't every young boarder," said Rosalie Le Grange, "who is intelligent enough to let his landlady boss him. Now you be back in just ten minutes by the clock, that's an obedient boy."

Tommy cast one look at Betsy-Barbara as he went out of the door;
and Betsy-Barbara smiled as though to reassure him.

Rosalie was coming now to the end of her operations. She had reached the point where one may relax caution a little—when speed
and despatch are more necessary than concealment. So she proceeded to the heart of the matter without any of her customary circumlocu-

"Betsy-Barbara Lane," she said,
"I believe you'd go for a friend to

"I think I'd do almost anything

Barbara, smiling warmly.

LOST PUP WANTS TO FIND A HOME

Brown Water Spaniel of Good Breeding Picked Up and Held by Police

A little brown water spaniel wants a home. He hasn't any collar or any muzzle, nor any money to buy a muzzle with, but he don't want to be shot. This is what may happen to him if he can't find a home.

The little fellow, wearing a forlorn, ragged air, but with his head held high, showing marked breeding, walked into the yard of John Lee, 1653 Berlin street, a few days ago. With a kindly feeling for dogs in general, Mr. Lee took the dog into his house, touched by his "I-want-a-home" look. Mr. Lee tried in vain to find an owner for the strayed pup.

Not having room for him, last night he took him to No. 2 police station and put him in the hands of Patrolman F. Groeschner. Groeschner locked him up in a cell and is taking care of him. He says that the dog is but six months old. In the few hours that he has been in the station house he has made fast friends with the patrolmen.

PHYSICAL TRAINING IS NEW DEPARTURE

Wisconsin Takes Step Into New Field with Department at La Crosse Normal School

SUPPLIES A GROWING NECESSITY

All Around Physical Education Recognized as More Necessary Than Athletics

A new departure in the work of state institutions is the department of physical education, which will be inaugurated at the local normal school when the fall semester opens. The department will train physical instructors in all branches. The following statement issued by the normal school describes the need which the new department is aimed to meet and the courses to be offered:

"Need—With the establishment of the new department of physical education at the La Crosse state normal school comes an acknowledgment by the state of the demand for trained supervisors in this field. The question is no longer, 'Shall physical education be taught?' but 'How shall it be taught?' To this there is but one reply, 'We must have trained instructors.'

"Athletes who could play football, baseball and basketball were early to be had, and so athletes were formerly placed in charge of courses of physical training. We have had fine ball teams in all the high schools of standing in the state—and little else. The few were trained in a special kind of work, but the many were merely permitted to look on at the games.

"This statement does not underestimate the value of athletics, but it emphasizes the fact that athletics and physical education are not synonymous terms. Athletics is but one branch of physical education, a branch that has its value no less than its limitations.

"This confusion of terms led people to under-rate the value of physical education. But gradually they came to realize that physical education is broader in meaning. It means rather the making of healthy men and women, men and women who are strong mentally and physically and morally. It means a clean mind in a clean body. Physical education means the training of men and women in the laws of right living.

"If this is the great object of physical education, then we must have trained teachers of the subject. This need we have recognized. In acknowledgment of the influence that an instructor may exercise upon the child, we have established playgrounds throughout the country and placed them in the charge of expert supervisors. The astonishing spread of this movement is but proof of the need of trained men, and today the demand for expert playground supervisors exceeds the supply.

"The normal schools as well have been quick to see the value of physical education. Each student is required to have one year of the work and the value of this training is inestimable.

"One year of such work, however, is not sufficient to give the teacher a grasp of the subject, so that he can stand before the children, perform the proper exercises correctly and automatically, and yet guide the work of his pupils with vim and enthusiasm.

"To meet the demand for trained teachers of physical education the board of regents of normal schools has established the department of physical education at La Crosse.

Courses.

"The courses offered in this department will be three in number.

"I. A one-year course in physical education. This course is open to college graduates only, and will prepare the student for the teaching of physical education in colleges, normal schools, high schools, Y. M. C. A's, etc., the country over. Graduates of this course, in addition to teaching physical education, will be prepared to teach some of the usual whole game up in about 30 seconds. I work for Mr. Cathcart. He got a chance to come into that big merger case the other day. It would be the making of him—and me—if he could land it, even if he lost, but he is going to turn it down because he is so worried about Miss Lorna that he does not dare accept. He knows very well that if he takes the case he'll be thinking about her instead of the merger. Now if he was sure of her and didn't have to worry he could make his career and of course when the office was prosperous there would be a chance for my career, too. Won't you let Mr. Cathcart marry Miss Lorna—and give me a chance?"

There was no sign of relenting in the cold, gray eyes and Bobby tried again.

"Suppose that you had a little boy," he began. "Suppose that you died when he was a kid and he had to take to the newsboys' lodging house and do the best he could. Suppose that little boy was anxious to get ahead and no one would take him because he was just a newsie."

"Then suppose a chap came along and said 'Robert, you look good to me. You travel the straight and narrow path and I'll give you a dollar a week

All these are under competent supervision.

Advantages of Enrolling Early.
"Although the new building will not be ready this year, no fear should be felt that the course will not be thorough and efficient. The work will begin September 2, under a very capable and experienced director. Students enrolling this fall will secure the advantages of smaller classes and more personal attention from the instructors.

Many a woman's idea of a good husband is one who can carve without getting any spots on the tablecloth.

CATHCART'S BOY

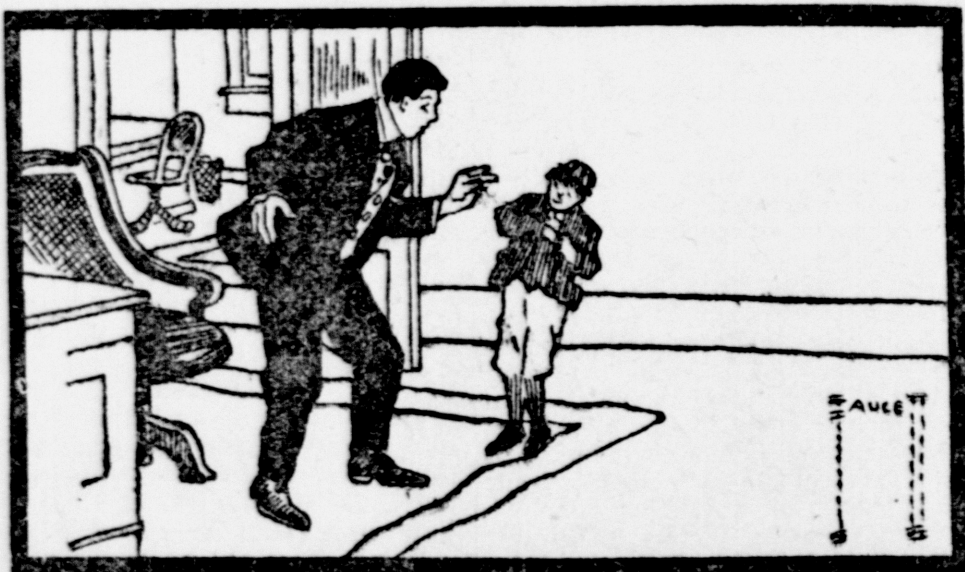

who were merely looking for jobs, decided to employ Master Robert Redmond.

"I ain't looking for much salary," explained Robert when the fact was explained to him that a dollar a week would be paid at the start. "I want to make a career for myself and—I'll be worth more to you soon."

This idea of a career pleased Cathcart. He, too, was still looking for a career. He had a law office, it was true, and his sheepskin hung upon the wall, but the clients were still few and Cathcart had a boyish idea that he and Bobby would find a career together.

As the days passed, he began to take a live interest in Bobby. With wits sharpened in the school of the street, the boy had resisted the taint of the gutter and had acquired its alertness with but few of the bad habits of the gamins. It is true that he smoked when he could afford the price of a pack of cigarettes, and his language at times was more emphatic than polite, but he swore only under stress of circumstance and sought to break himself of the trick. He had noticed that Cathcart seldom used an oath, and he was making Cathcart his pattern. Times were easy in the Cathcart writing notes, not that he did not care for briefs, but because they did not come to him. Some of these days the briefs would come and with their coming he would marry Lorna and live happily ever after.

SO CATHCART EMPLOYED ROBERT.

At present the course of true love, as Bobby put it to himself, was "as crooked as a corkscrew with the cramps." Old Mrs. Stanley had a double objection to Cathcart.

In the first place he was poor—which might be forgiven him—and he was a lawyer. When her husband, Gordon Stanley, died there had been much litigation over the estate. Mrs. Stanley was finally the victor, but she had promptly crossed all legal lights from her visiting list and regarded the entire profession as unhung thieves.

This was the principal rock which Cathcart found in his path. He would not elope with Lorna, and he could not gain the old lady's consent. The third alternative—that of giving Lorna up—was equally impossible and so the affair lagged.

Bobby was quick to sense the situation. Even had he not carried so many notes he would have understood, and the cause troubled him. So it happened that he sat in the Stanley parlor one Sunday afternoon confronting a very puzzled old lady.

"The kids down at the club was telling me that you take an interest in boys," explained Bobby, "and I've come to see you about my career."

"I am always interested in the development of character and the inculcation of the habits of industry."

"That's all right," agreed Bobby politely, wondering what that enigmatical thing was. "I got the habit all right. All I'm looking for is a chance to let it get busy."

"I do not know of a vacant position at the present moment," said Mrs. Stanley thoughtfully. "You might leave your name and address with me."

"I've got the job," explained Bobby patiently, "but you're flagging the express and spoiling my chance. I want a career and you can't have a career because he loves a girl so much he can't think about law."

"I fail to see where that concerns me," said Mrs. Stanley stiffly. "The law had better run along, little boy, and not waste my time."

"But look here," pleaded Bobby. "You've got a chance to clear the whole game up in about 30 seconds. I work for Mr. Cathcart. He got a chance to come into that big merger case the other day. It would be the making of him—and me—if he could land it, even if he lost, but he is going to turn it down because he is so worried about Miss Lorna that he does not dare accept. He knows very well that if he takes the case he'll be thinking about her instead of the merger. Now if he was sure of her and didn't have to worry he could make his career and of course when the office was prosperous there would be a chance for my career, too. Won't you let Mr. Cathcart marry Miss Lorna—and give me a chance?"

There was no sign of relenting in the cold, gray eyes and Bobby tried again.

"Suppose that you had a little boy," he began. "Suppose that you died when he was a kid and he had to take to the newsboys' lodging house and do the best he could. Suppose that little boy was anxious to get ahead and no one would take him because he was just a newsie."

"Then suppose a chap came along and said 'Robert, you look good to me. You travel the straight and narrow path and I'll give you a dollar a week and a chance for a career.' What would you think if I was your boy?" Bobby did not know that far back in the early days when Stanley was making the money that had left him a millionaire there had been a little boy who had sought a career. He had been compelled to work along with the rest and the mines had killed him.

In the gleaming eyes a tear now glistened and Bobby talked on unchecked. He told of the trouble he and Cathcart had when the funds were low, of how Cathcart had gone without money himself because he would not take cases he knew to be dishonest and in the end his boyish talk did more than all the pleadings of Lorna and Cathcart together. The old lady lanted a kiss on the freckled cheek.

Bobby sped from the room. He knew a spot in the park where Cathcart and Lorna were apt to be and he made for this tryst with all speed. He met the lovers on their way home and halted them to give salutation.

"Boss," he said gayly. "Don't best it at the corner. Take Miss Lorna all the way home. Mrs. Stanley wants to talk to you about getting married and about my career."

Songs of the Balkans.

The part played by Balkan song in keeping fresh the hatred of the Christians against the Turks in the peninsula has been very great. Popular poetry in the Balkans has ended by creating one unique hero, Marka Kral-jevitich. He is a great warrior, combining in his own person the most notable qualities of William Tell, the Cid, Don Quixote and Pantagruel. He is continually deceiving the Turk by all manner of disreputable stratagems and always justifies the means by success.
Marka is a great feudal lord, and he spends his time in challenging Turks to single combat. Hero-like, his successes are prodigious.

A Tale of Red Tape.

Among the tales of red tape the following should hold a high place; M.
Roger Cavallion, a young French gentleman rider, who had won his hundredth steeplechase, was drawn for the conscription and had to serve for a year. He asked to be placed in the cavalry, explaining with due modesty
that he was not unknown as a horseman. The military council of revision refused the request on the ground that as his period of service was only one year he would not have time to learn to ride.

A Fiasco.

The phrase "a complete fiasco" originated with a German workman, who declared that he could blow glass as well as an expert glassworker. A friend laid a wager with him to the contrary, and when the test came off
the would be glassblower found that he could produce only a pear shaped flask (fiasco). Nothing daunted, he tried again, but with the same result.
The story of the workman became known, and hence the origin of the phrase which is used in designating a failure.

JAPS RUSH TO BUY CALIFORNIA LANDS

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Aug. 12.—
Figures given out at Secretary of State Frank Jordan's office today show that Japanese in California have invested close to $1,100,000 in agricultural lands and orchards since the passage of the Webb anti-alien land law.

One hundred companies have been formed with a total capitalization of more than $2,145,000.

The Japanese contend that although the Webb law prohibits the descent of land to their heirs, it does not prevent transfer of stock.

Two days remain in which land
can be purchased by aliens before
the Webb law becomes effective.

ports you hear. You have a monopoly on my affections."

"John, I will trust you forever."

of the receiver, and the bonds of marriage were followed.—Stanford Chaparral.

New York's First Elevator.

The first passenger elevator in New York was located in the old Fifth Avenue hotel. The car was propelled up and down the elevator shaft slowly by the revolution of a large steel screw inside a sleeve or jacket in the center of the car. The movement was smooth and ordinarily comfortable, and the elevator served its purpose for many years.—New York Tribune.

Present Styles "Evolutionary" Not "Revolutionary"

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—This is the undress era and man, indirectly, and militant woman directly, are to blame. So women who have been wearing "knickers" as their sole undergarment may cheer up. They are exempt from all responsibility. This is the last word from a noted London
medical authority, and his reasoning
is not so far-fetched as at first di-agnosis might appear.

Since one body of women was driven to both the extreme of militancy

are set on at the hips and cut in points at the lower edge. Sometimes double and triple tunics are worn; these may be of tulle, net or lace, dependent only on the material
beneath and the fancy of the wearer.
Of their style there is, indeed, no end; but, before trying to carry out the idea, one must first learn what a tunic really is. According to the latest fashion authority, a tunic may mean simply a pleated ruffle, at least twelve inches in depth, set in at the waistline. It may be clinging or rippling, plain or full, and of any characteristic only which all up-to-date tunics possess in common; that is, greater length at the back than the sides and front, rather than an even depth, as formerly.

The continued vogue of silks during the summer, and the constant cry of their scarcity, may be offset
by many cotton fabrics being worn far into the fall, and even throughout the winter. This will assuredly be the case with materials of rough weave, as these are almost indistinguishable from their woolen prototype.
Eponge, agaric and ratine are some of those which are certain to prove quite as attractive throughout the cool, bracing days of autumn as during the languorous days of spring or the humid ones of summer. These many eventually come to realize an all-the-year-round vogue.

The attractive gown of the second illustration is well suited to August days. It will be equally desirable for afternoon and evening indoor wear during the winter. It was developed in soft surah silk, with collar, lapels and chemisette of shadow lace. A sash of Gobelin-blue, tan-and-white tartan ribbon is wound
loosely twice about the waist and tied low on the left side. The waist drapes considerably over the skirt;
the skirt has extra fullness laid in soft pleats. Tuck over the shoulders and long sleeves finished by deep frills are pleasing details of the model.

For the lovely frocks of summer,
pearl trimmings are much worn. Especially in the diaphanous white materials do they lend a softening beauty and grace both to frock and wearer. The string of brilliants as an edging for sleeves and corsage is also much in favor, and presages a revival of the gay effects seen last winter. But the smartest creations of this season will undoubtedly place
their dependence more on the magnificence of the fabric than on any accompanying trimming. Particularly will this be true where silk, brocades, satin and velvet are employed, as these seem sufficient unto themselves without extra ornamenta-

Figure One

and that of aping man's clothes in order to attract his attention, the remainder of the sex were obliged to rely more than ever on their personal attractions, and consequently have gone to the other extreme in suggesting by clinging garments,
rather than by directly revealing
charms, lines and feminine curves.
He also asserts that the dress movement tends toward freedom of expression, that it is evolutionary and not revolutionary and is, therefore,
to be condoned.

After all, it is only a very small minority of women whose over-freedom in dress is deserving of criticism; the vast majority, while conforming to the prevailing modes,
keep well within the lines laid down by modesty and good breeding. The frock of the first illustration shows an extremely smart design of the good taste. The development of the waist was in purple charmeuse, the chemisette in Milan lace, and the vest in dark purple velvet adorned with pearl buttons. A graded flounce
of shadow lace finishes the neck of the garment. The addition of the extension gives it a smart jacket appearance, very popular at present,
but, if desired, this may be omitted.

As spring gave place to full-fledged
summer, this idea of the composite costume confronted us very insistently. By the composite costume is meant that which divides materials, or which is formed of a skirt of one material and coat or coatee of another. The coatee has been the most picturesque note of the summer, and much too popular to be discarded for the autumn ensemble.
It is only now that women have come fully to realize its charm, and it requires but little imagination to replace the diaphanous crepes, crepons, muslins and silks with those heavier-weight silk, velvet and satin brocade for wear during the winter season.

It is however, adopted only when the pelium is a feature of the waist,
otherwise the waist should be of similar or lighter tone. The skirt of the illustration was made of cream crepon. It has stylish drapery at the left side confined fullness at the waistline and fashionable narrow lines at the hem. Many variations, this summer, have been played to the theme of the tunic. A very smart version of recent introduction is a spreading flounce of true lampshade form, which begins at the waist and extends to the knees; it ripples about the figure in a very uncertain manner, apparently without rhyme or reason. Other flounces

Figure Two

For this reason it is just possible that the days of the beaded and bugled waists are numbered. The woven over-dress, from which at an hour's notice milady, by the use of an old foundation, could have a smart costume, will be relegated to a place in the past. In its stead will appear frocks of light-weight materials, crepe de Chine, Canton crepe,
and velvet, silk and satin brocade,
the materials revealing one another in the beauty of the sheen and texture.

BOY FINDS MONEY RETURNS TO OWNER

Mrs. Ernest A. Hiske, 723 South Fourth street, is richer today by $33.50 and owes it to the honesty of Johnny Gerhard, a young man in the employ of the Gas and Electric company.

Mrs. Hiske lost a purse containing the money while at the "101 ranch" circus. She reported "pickpockets" to the police. The money was dropped in the heart of the immense circus crowd and was picked up by the boy. He read the lost ad. in The Tribune, returned the purse and was presented with six of the thirty-three dollars for his honesty.

MULHALL'S MEMORY BAD

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12. — The house lobby committee struggled today with "Colonel" M. M. Mulhall's defective memory when it sought light on the influence the ex-N. A. M. lobbyist said he wielded on members of congress. Questioned about Representative Burke of Pennsylvania, the witness declared that the congressman was a "high toned gentleman."

He denied ability to influence Mr. Burke and said that Emery had once requested him to see the Pennsylvania member and get him to use his influence with Secretary of State Knox to have ex-Congressman Jas. E. Watson of Indiana appointed a cabinet member.

PATHFINDERS TO GO THROUGH HERE

Caravan of "Black and Yellow Trail" to Come to La Crosse Tomorrow

The pathfinder caravan of the "Black and Yellow Trail" will pass through La Crosse tomorrow afternoon at 5:45 according to reports received here today.

The "Black and Yellow Trail" is a specially mapped route for automobiles from Chicago through the Black Hills of South Dakota through Yellowstone National park and to the extreme northwest. The project is being put through by the Chicago Black Hills and Yellowstone Park Highway association, their object being to stimulate the interest of tourists in these places.

The pathfinder caravan started from Chicago this morning. Word has been received from James R. Kinsloe, secretary of the Winona association of Commerce by Secretary J. L. Utermoehl of the board of trade here that the trail from Winona to Ridgeway, Minn., which is half way from Winona to La Crosse, has been marked by a delegation from that city. Secretary Utermoehl and a committee from the board of trade will this afternoon mark the train from La Crosse to Ridgeway. The caravan will spend tomorrow night in Winona. It will be met in La Crosse by a party from Winona.

Leaving La Crosse the caravan will cross to the Minnesota side of the river and will take the bluff road from La Crescent. The "Black and Yellow Trail" will take in the river road to Winona when the road is completed.

GIRL'S ASSAILANT ASSESSED A FINE

George Race, a resident of Portage, Wis., who was arrested Saturday with Joe Cook, a railroad man of this city, following their forcing an entrance into the room of Cora Estern in the American hotel on the North side Friday night, pleaded guilty to a charge of assault and battery this morning in county court before Judge John Brindley and was fined $75, and costs amounting to $9.21. Cook will probably be tried this afternoon on a similar charge.

MCNAB TAKES STAND

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Aug. 12. — John L. McNab, former United States district attorney, who resigned because the United States attorney general delayed the Digs-Cammetti "white slave" trials, was called to the stand at noon today in the trial of Maury Digs on a charge of having violated the Mann act. McNab testified to certain exhibits to be presented by the government.

Hundreds of persons gathered early today in the corridors of the federal building, waiting for the doors of the court to open. The announcement that Miss Marsha Warrington would take the stand today to lay bare her relations with Digs on their trip with Drew, Cammetti and Miss Lola Norris, to Reno, Nev., was the magnet which drew the throng.

DENY WEDDING RUMOR

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12. — A report that the wedding of Miss Jessie Wilson, daughter of the president and Francis B. Sayre was to take place next month, instead of in November as originally planned, was emphatically denied here today.

PERMIT TO WED

A permit to wed was granted today to Henry Mason and Annie Erickson, both of La Crosse.

John M. Olson and Olga E. Gabel also were equipped with the necessary papers to travel "double."

GILLIS RELEASED BUT NO MARRIAGE

Attorney F. H. Hartwell States Positively that the Wedding to Miss Losie Is Called Off

Henry Gillis, street car conductor whom the police have been holding since the shooting of his former wife in his apartments at 501 Pine street last week, was released this morning by Judge Brindley following the filing of the necessary bond.

Although Gillis holds a permit to wed Miss Eva Losie of this city, his attorney, F. H. Hartwell, announced positively this morning that the nuptials had been "indefinitely postponed." He declined to state reasons for the sudden decision to call off the wedding.

Gillis today reiterated his previous statements that he knew absolutely nothing of the intention of his wife to shoot herself and that he had absolutely nothing to do with the affair.

Gillis will probably be taken into county court tomorrow but it is not believed that the case against him—a statutory one—will be tried then owing to the condition of Mrs. Gillis, who is still confined at the hospital.

MORRIS IMPROVES SAY FIGHT SHARPS

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 12.—Sport critics today were agreed that Carl Morris, ex-white hope, is a shifter fighter than he was when he first launched his disastrous campaign for the belt. In last night's battle with Fred McKay of New York, the Sapulpa giant toyed with his opponent. After mauling him in the second round, Morris knocked McKay through the ropes in the third, with a left to the jaw, followed by a stiff right to the chin.

HOTEL FIRE KILLS UNIDENTIFIED MAN

ALTOONA, Wis., Aug. 12.—An unknown man was burned to death, scores of guests had narrow escapes and several were seriously burned when a fire of unknown origin destroyed the Altoona hotel here this morning. There were more than 100 guests in the hotel and all were forced to flee in their night clothes. The loss is estimated at $50,000.

FARM FIRE FATAL

FOND DU LAC, Wis., Aug. 12.—One man, Philip Raeder, 65, is dead, his son Louis and infant grandson Walter are seriously burned as the result of an early morning fire that completely destroyed the farm home of Louise Raeder at Greenbush, early today.

YEGGS IN BATTLE WITH TOWNSMEN

One Man Shot when Three Attempt to Rob West Liberty Post-office

SHOOT OUT THE STREET LIGHTS

Ex-Mayor Goes to Investigate Explosion and Is Wounded by Thieves

WEST LIBERTY, Iowa, Aug. 12.—One man was shot, the postoffice safe partially wrecked and street lamps shot out with shotguns in the hands of three bank robbers here at 2 o'clock this morning. The robbers escaped but railroad and bank detectives are on their trail, assisted by local officials and citizens.

Three men drove into town at 1 o'clock, stole an ax and battered down the front door of the postoffice. Entering, they placed two charges of "soup" in holes drilled in the combination of the safe. The knob was blown off but the safe withstood the attack.

Fearing that the noise would alarm the citizens and a battle take place in the well lighted streets, the robbers, armed with shotguns, went into the street and shot out the street lamps.

Ex-Mayor L. W. Sweet, a prominent jeweler who lives above his store, was awakened and with his son started to investigate. As he crossed the street, 75 yards from the postoffice, the robbers opened fire on him. One load of shot struck him, one shot in the left eye, another through his hat and others in his arm and abdomen. Other citizens were awakened and the robbers fled.

NOV. 1 TO JAN. 1 IS ONLY OPEN SEASON FOR US

ment, but that most of them return in the fall by routes taking the heaviest flights along lines on both sides of the rivers. That being true, the application of the prohibitory rule to the autumn migratory season is an unjust discrimination against the river counties, fails of its purpose to protect the birds during migration and gives to sportsmen along the actual fall line of migration an unfair advantage.

Following is the complete text of the rules and regulations authorized by the agricultural department under the spring shooting act of congress:

Regulations 1. Definitions

"For the purposes of these regulations the following shall be considered migratory game birds:

"(a) Anatidae or waterfowl, including brant, wild ducks, geese and swans.

"(b) Gruidae or cranes, including little brown, sandhill and whooping cranes.

"(c) Rallidae or rails, including coots, gallinules and sora and other rails.

"(d) Limicolae or shore birds, including avocets, curlew, dowitchers, godwits, knots, oyster catchers, phalaropes, plovers, sandpipers, snipe, stilts, surf birds, turnstones, willet, woodcock and yellow legs.

"(e) Columbidae or pigeons, including doves and wild pigeons.

"For the purposes of these regulations the following shall be considered migratory insectivorous birds:

"(f) Bobolinks, catbirds, chickadees, cuckoos, flycatchers, grosbeaks, hummingbirds, kinglets, martins, meadow larks, night hawks or bull-bats, nuthatches, orioles, robins, shrikes, swallows, swifts, tanager, titmice, thrushes, vireos, warblers, waxwings, phipporwill, woodpeckers and wrens, and all other perching birds which feed entirely or chiefly on insects.

Regulation 2. Closed Seasons at Night

"A daily closed season on all migratory game and insectivorous birds shall extend from sunset to sunrise.

Regulation 3. Closed Season on Insectivorous Birds

"A closed season on migratory insectivorous birds shall continue to Dec. 31, 1913, and each year thereafter shall begin Jan. 1 and continue to Dec. 31, both dates inclusive; but birds may be collected for scientific purposes according to the laws of the respective states and territories and the District of Columbia, and provided further that the closed season on reedbeds or rice-beds in Delaware, Maryland, the District of Columbia, Virginia and South Carolina shall begin Nov. 1 and end Aug. 31 next following, both dates inclusive.

Regulation 4. Five-Year Closed Seasons on Certain Game Birds

"A closed season shall continue until Sept. 1, 1918, on the following migratory game birds: Band-tailed pigeons, little brown, sandhill and whooping cranes, swans, curlew and all shore birds except the black-breasted and golden plover, Wilson or jack snipe, woodcock and the greater and lesser yellowlegs.

"A closed season shall also continue until Sept. 1, 1918, on wood-ducks in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, West Virginia and Wisconsin; on rails in California and Vermont; and on woodcock in Illinois and Missouri.

Regulation 5. Closed Season on Certain Navigable Rivers

"A closed season shall continue between Jan. 1 and Oct. 31, both dates inclusive, of each year, on all migratory birds passing over or at rest on any of the waters of the main streams of the following navigable rivers, to wit: Mississippi river between New Orleans, La., and Minneapolis, Minn.; the Ohio river between its mouth and Pittsburg, Pa., and the Missouri river between its mouth and Bismarck, N. D.; and on the killing or capture of any of such birds on or over the shores of any said rivers, or at any point within the limits aforesaid from any boat, raft or other device, floating or otherwise, in or on any such waters.

Regulation 6. Zones

"The following zones for the protection of migratory game and insectivorous birds are hereby established:

"Zone No. 1, the breeding zone, comprising states lying wholly or in part north of latitude 40 degrees, and the Ohio river and including Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Colorado, Wyoming, Montana, Idaho, Oregon and Washington—twenty-five states.

"Zone No. 2, the wintering zone, comprising states lying wholly or in part south of latitude 40 degrees and the Ohio river and including Delaware, Maryland, the District of Columbia, West Virginia, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee, Kentucky, Missouri, Arkansas, Louisiana, Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, New Mexico, Arizona, California, Nevada and Utah—twenty-three states and the District of Columbia.

Regulation 7. Construction

"For the purposes of regulations 8 and 9 each period of time therein prescribed as a closed season shall be construed to include the first day and to exclude the last day thereof.

Regulation 8. Closed Seasons in Zone No. 1

"Closed seasons in zone No. 1 shall be as follows:

"Waterfowl.—The closed season on waterfowl shall be between Dec. 16 and Sept. 1 next following, except as follows:

"Exceptions: In Massachusetts the closed season shall be between Jan. 1 and Sept. 15. In Minnesota and North Dakota the closed season shall be between Dec. 16 and Sept. 7. In South Dakota the closed season shall be between Dec. 16 and Sept. 10. In New York, other than on Long Island, and in Oregon the closed season shall be between Dec. 16 and Sept. 16. In New Hampshire, Long Island, New Jersey and Washington the closed season shall be between Jan. 16 and Oct. 1.

"Rails.—The closed season on rails, coots and gallinules shall be between Dec. 1 and Sept. 1 next following, except as follows:

"Exceptions: In Massachusetts the closed season shall be between Jan. 1 and Sept. 15. In Minnesota and North Dakota the closed season shall be between Dec. 16 and Sept. 7. road yards to the marsh east of the causeway.

While the investigation is in progress, says Mr. Roemer, the Milwaukee road will be ordered to take extra precautions at all crossings. The railway will be compelled to employ additional crossing tenders, strong and adequate gates will be demanded and a perfect lighting system installed at all crossings.

The city administration today is celebrating the decision to reopen the matter as a great victory and feel confident that the city will be the gainer under whatever decision is handed down by the commission following its investigation.

LOCAL BANKS TO MAKE REPORT

A notice has been received here by the state banks from A. E. Knoll, state commissioner of banking, that a statement of their business up to the date of August 9, is desired. At the same time a statement from the national banks of the city will be requested. These statements are required five times annually from all the banks in the country.

DON'T WAIT FOR THIS

Don't risk loss in your herd. Don't wait until disease has cut down your profits. Sixty millions of dollars was lost by the American Farmer last year because he "waited" till hog cholera infected his herd. Take the "stitch in time to save nine" NOW. Go to your dealer today—Order

Tell him what you want to use it for—he'll tell you the quantity you need. He will give you booklets telling how to use B-K. Try it at OUR risk. If it doesn't prove satisfactory, your money will be returned.

To positively prevent hog cholera, give B-K in the feed and water. It acts as a tonic and disease preventive by ridding the intestines of germs, worms, etc., thus keeping the hogs in a healthy, growing—money-making condition. Spray a dilution of B-K on the feeding boards, troughs and sleeping quarters. Rinse out the swill barrel with a B-K dilution. Put B-K in the hog wallow (so that the hog can keep his own skin healthy and free from disease germs.) B-K banishes flies and odors, prevents the carrying of disease and disease germs from place to place.

Don't invite loss of property and profit by waiting. Order your B-K today.

THERE IS NO EXCUSE FOR IMPURE MILK

Last Saturday night there was published an interesting story of the production of pure milk as practised at the Seiler Dairy Farm. If you failed to read it, you will do well to look it up and learn why the milk we sell is the very best that scientific dairying can produce.

We want you to watch this paper carefully from now on. You will see a series of educational advertisements that will show you how to get the best results from the use of milk. You will learn that there is no excuse for impure milk.

"Health Brand" Milk

is the only scientifically pure milk that is being sold in this section of the state. You owe it to yourself and family to read every advertisement carefully.

Toasted Corn Flakes

in an air-tight box!

That's the way to buy—the way to save the waste of the open-box way.

No one likes stale corn flakes—yet they can't help but get stale before consumed if purchased in a package that cuts open and can't be closed again.

Silver Flake Corn

comes in the round box with the air-tight fitting lid that is replaced after each using.

They are as good—fresh—when the last helping is desired as when you used the first.

And they are the most delicious of all toasted corn flakes—try them and see if we're not right.

Today's Beauty Recipes

By Mme. D'Mille.

"Weather marred skins can be made clear, soft and beautiful if powder and mussy creams are discarded for a mayatone lotion. This lotion applied in the morning lasts throughout the day and blends so nicely with the skin that it cannot be detected. To prepare, dissolve an original package mayatone in one-half pint witch hazel. The regular use of this skin lotion corrects many complexion upsets and is especially effective when used for tan, freckles or that 'greasy,' 'chalky' condition following the continued use of powder. To the daintiest complexion the mayatone lotion will lend an indefinable charm and elegance.

"No woman is justified in employing the painful and expensive electric needle to rid the skin of objectionable growths of hair, because with delatone the skin can be made clear and hairless. A paste is made with some powdered delatone and water and applied to the hairy surface for two minutes, then rubbed off and the skin washed. This removes every trace of hair without mar or blemish to the skin."—Advertisement.

CATHOLIC WOMEN FIGHT RAG DANCES

New League Which Is Completed Today ill Wage War on Animal Dances

IRELAND DEFENDS THE CHURCH

St. Paul Prelate Answers the Charges Made Against Catholicism

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 12.—One hundred thousand Catholic women will wage unrelenting warfare upon the "animal dances" in the United States as a result of the formation of the League of Catholic Women, the organization of which will be completed today.

Catholic women are to shut their doors against the tango, the bunny hug, the turkey trot and similar one step exercises, and not only is the ban to run against the dances but likewise against the men and women who dance them or who attend dances where these steps are permitted.

Wave of Immorality
The Catholic women feel that as a result of the tolerance with which these dances have been received in all classes of society that a wave of immorality is sweeping the country. They point to the form outlining diaphanous gown, the excessively slit skirt, the increase in the cigarette smoking by women, and declare that the swelling divorce statistics are already demonstrating that, as a nation, we are beginning to reap the harvest from the crop of folly that we have sown.

Among the women who have been selected to lead in the battle against vice in America are Miss Anna Malia of Scranton, Pa.; Mrs. Mary McCrehen of Columbus, Ohio; Mrs. Ellen Donovan, Indianapolis, Ind.; Mrs. T. F. Barrett of Grand Rapids, Mich.; Miss Mary Mathews of Canton, Ohio, and Miss Fanny Miller of Minneapolis, Minn.

Requiem Mass
The opening session of the American Federation of Catholic societies today was marked with solemn requiem mass at St. Mary's church, followed by a business session of the delegates at the auditorium. Tonight Thomas B. Minahan of Seattle and Rev. James H. Cotter of Ironton, O., will speak.

Answers Attack
Defending Catholicism from the attacks of its enemies, and declaring that its Americanism means everything that is patriotic and a strong and conscientious upholding of the constitution of the United States, Archbishop Ireland spoke in eloquent terms before a vast assemblage at the Auditorium last night.

He denied that the pope had designs on America, or would interfere with duties of the state.

In detail, he took up the various attacks which have and are being frequently made upon the Roman Catholic church. He contended that these attacks are plainly from persons of unsound minds. He further stated his emphatic belief that the church should not tread upon the temporal power vested in the government and that a distinct line should be defined by which the exercise of religious belief should be tolerated without governmental interference.

To Fight White Slavery.
Strongly endorsing the work done by the federal government in stamping out the white slave traffic and calling upon the members of the American Federation of Catholic societies to personally support and aid in the work, Charles I. Denechaud of Boston, president of the federation, in his annual report, read yesterday, declared:

"The great work now being done by the federal government in the suppression of the white slave traffic deserves the vigorous support of the federation and allied societies in order that the day of the trader in human flesh soon pass."

"In order to correct the tendency of playwrights and producers to foster improper plays upon the public," the report says, "the support of the morals committee of the federation is necessary. Concerted action should be taken."

Gets Order from Pope.

Anthony Matra, secretary of the American Federation of Catholic societies, was yesterday given the order of St. George by Pope Pius X. The announcement of the bestowal came in a message from the pope. This is the highest order that can be conferred upon a layman in the Catholic church.

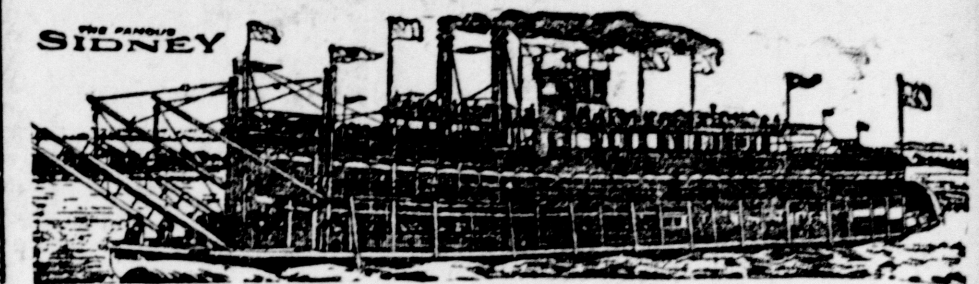

A Game That Lasts.

For the man who has once had the responsibility of coaching an eight oared crew the task has an attraction which can't be resisted. Some one asked me once why it is that most college crew coaches make good chess players. I knew that the person who put the question didn't know much about the rowing game, for producing a successful eight oared crew requires an amount of thinking which makes chess seem like pure recreation in comparison. Of course it's different from a chess problem in the fact that opponents don't always start with the same strength of forces, but this only adds to the fascination of trying to boat a winning combination.—Outing.

Summer Hints to Mothers Who 'Care'

Seasonable Advice on the Health of Children in Hot Weather

It is well that mothers be advised not to over-feed the children during the hot months. No one requires as much food in summer as in winter. Feed the children the lighter and more easily digested foods. See that the milk is cool and kept away from flies. Be careful that the fruit is ripe, and if the child begins to scratch the skin, indicating too much acid in the blood, deprive it of fruit for several days.

It is quite natural that under these conditions there will be some digestive disturbances, such as constipation, indigestion or summer diarrhoea. It may be accompanied by a cold or by eruptions of the skin. The timely remedy, and one which you can rely on for results, is a small dose of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin on retiring, and by morning the bowels will move and the trouble will vanish. The exceptional tonic ingredients in this remedy will tone the stomach and enrich the blood, and the child will feel its usual self again.

Many families like that of Mr. William Weber, 29 Edwin Place, Buffalo, N. Y., who uses it for foul breath and constipation, and Mrs. John Wallace, Scottville, Ky., who finds it valuable to herself as well as her children, are never without it, keeping it for just such emergencies. You also can obtain a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at fifty cents or one dollar of any druggist. Families which once use this pleasant-tasting laxative forever after discard cathartics, purgatives, salts and pills. Families wishing to try a free sample bottle can obtain it, postpaid, by addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 411 Washington St. Monticello, Ill.—Advertisement.

East Lynne has enjoyed a unique popularity, both as play and novel. After being rejected by two publishers, it kept the printers of the third working night and day to meet the demand, and what is more, made abundant work for foreign printers too, for it was soon translated into most of the European and many of the oriental languages. And it achieved fame in another direction by becoming the stock example of the defects of our copyright system, for the many dramatic versions of the story into which a comic policeman was introduced, never brought the author a single penny in royalties—London Express.

ATHLETICS' RALLY BEATS WHITE SOX

Six Tallies in Seventh Inning Give Mackmen a Victory Eight to Five

SENATORS LOSE TO NAPS 6 TO 1

Mitchell Puzzles Washington Batters; Reds Split Doubleheader with the Pirates

AMERICAN LEAGUE
Philadelphia, 8; Chicago, 5
PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 12.—The Athletics took the third game of the series from the White Sox yesterday, 8 to 5, the locals winning the game in the seventh when four passes and three safeties, including Baker's triple with the bases, full, netted six tallies. Score: R H E Chicago, 2030000000—5 9 0 Philadelphia, 00001160X—8 9 1 Batteries: Cicotte, Russell, Scott, Benz and Schalk; Bush, Houck and Schang.

New York, 6; St. Louis, 2
NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Caldwell's fine twirling and batting enabled the Yanks to defeat the Browns yesterday, 6 to 2. Caldwell allowed the visitors but three hits, one of which was a home run by Pratt in the first inning. Fritz Maizel, Chance's $18,000 beauty and late of Baltimore joined the Yanks yesterday, and figured prominently in the run getting. Score: R H E St. Louis, 101000000—2 3 1 New York, 03010020X—6 9 3 Batteries: Leverenz, Baumgardner and Alexander; Caldwell and Sweeney.

Auction Room Curiosities.

Everything, it is said, comes into the London auction room sooner or later, and the list of curiosities that have been sold in the past is curious. Among them have been locks of Nelson's and Wellington's hair, the head of a Peruvian Indian, a human skull no bigger than a walnut—that of a dwarf found in the interior of Mexico—"Oom Paul's" hat, a curious, greasy, battered head gear that fetched $120, and the blue silk vest which Charles I. wore at his execution, which was purchased for $1,000.—New York Sun.

At Play Grounds

North Side Midget League
It was a regular democratic victory for the "Q" Kids when they won from the Tigers in a ragged game to the tune of 16 to 1. The game was slow and uninteresting, neither team playing in their usual form.

The Stars put up a good exhibition of ball against the Champs in a game which was full of good plays and plenty of "pep" on the part of the members of both teams. The feature of the game was the batting of "Dad" Swennes, who, owing to an accident, could only use his left arm in swinging his bat. Out of three times at bat, Swennes hit safely three times and made three runs. The pitching of Gibson for the Champs and Engelke for the Stars were good throughout the game, both having a number of strikeouts to their credit.

South Side Midget League
In an exciting game the Badgers defeated the All Stars by the score of 4 to 2. With the game seeming hopelessly lost in the ninth inning the Badgers came to bat, pounded in two runs, tied the score, and in the tenth scored two more, thus winning one of the most exciting games of the season. Denny practically won his own game in the ninth when he poled out a two bagger with one man on the sacks. However, he was put out as he tried to steal third and another inning was necessary. The All Stars went to pieces in this inning and errors lost the game for them.

The Phenoms won another victory over the Young Athletics by the score of 15 to 0. The Phenoms mixed their hits and the Young Athletics were unable to field them to advantage. While the latter were unable to hit out of the infield. As the All Stars lost while the Phenoms were winning the latter still hold second place in the league with the Badgers topping the list.

South Side Junior League
In one of the fastest and best games seen on the Hood street play grounds this season the Ramblers of Hood street defeated the fat White Sox of West Ave. by the score of 2 to 1. Weigel of the Ramblers and Schnell of the Sox both pitched great ball but Weigel had a little better of the argument. Schnell made the only score of the Sox by knocking a home run. This defeat of the Sox lets them down to second place with the Hoosiers of Hood street leading the bunch in the Junior league, with six games won and two lost. The Sox have won five and lost three. The Cardinals follow with an even break of four and four.

The Hoosiers defeated the Cardinals by the score of 4 to 2. The game was a pitchers' battle from the start to finish. Bedessem of the Hoosiers having eight and Heft of the Cardinals having six strikeouts to their credit. This victory and the defeat of the White Sox on the same evening places these two teams in a tie again.

South Side Senior League
There were no games on the West Ave. grounds on Friday night because of the interference of Jupiter Pluvius. The Imperials went to Hood street and the game was forfeited to them because of the non-appearance of the Cardinals. The Cardinals, through a misunderstanding did not appear and the chances are when the Imperials are in possession of the facts, they will consent to play the game.

MORSE'S WILDNESS PROVES EXPENSIVE

Colts Shut Out Grand Forks 9 to 0 when Pitcher Passes Nine and Hits One

TEN HITS FOR LA CROSSE TEAM

Locals Swat the Ball All Over Lot; Sutton Is Effective at All Times

Being opposed on the slab by a former La Crosse twirler, Morse, did not bother the Colts in the least yesterday afternoon as they hung a 9 to 0 coat of whitewash on the Grand Forks bunch in the opening game of the series. Incidentally Manager Lizzette's men won their third straight battle.

No, the score was not the result of a forfeiture, but it came from Morse's generosity, bunched hits and loose fielding on the part of the visitors. The locals took no pity at all on Morse and the all around player of last year's Minny league nine was given as clean a coat of calamine as was dealt out to Superior on the previous day.

Morse certainly was wild for he issued seven passes during the day in addition to hitting Dreis in the ribs. When he did locate the pan the Colts soaked them out, a total of ten hits being gathered off his delivery. His support also went back on him but his inability to put them over really brought about his downfall.

Grand Forks Helpless

On the other hand Sutton pitched a fine article of ball and he had the visitors completely at his mercy. Only five times did a Grand Forks man swat the pill to safe territory and no two bingles came together. With only one of the enemy reaching third base and with but three getting to second alive, it can be easily seen that Sutton did not have much trouble in whitewashing the visitors.

Grand Forks appeared on the field in white suits, the same as were worn by the locals and as a result it was hard to tell who was running the bases and who was guarding them. This resulted disastrously in the seventh when Chase shot the ball to Lizzette, who was coaching, mistaking him for his first sacker.

It remained for Dreis to make the prettiest fielding play of the day in the fourth when he took a clean hit away from Jarman. Jarman soaked a fast grounder half way between third and short and it looked safe but Dreis got the ball in deep short and shot to Lizzette, getting the man by half a step. Mike Kramer was the slugger with three bingles in four attempts but the last one was of a scratch variety.

Wildness Beats Morse

Sutton disposed of Grand Forks on five pitched balls in the opener, then the Colts went out and seved up the combat with a quartet of tallies in their half. Morse couldn't get them over to Thomas and he walked, advancing when Dreis was hit on the arm. De Rucha laid down a sacrifice, then Safford went to first on four wide ones, filing the corners. Hruska dumped one in front of the plate and Edmonds tried to get Thomas at the plate, but he slipped and all were safe. They got Lizzette on a bouncer although Dreis raced across on the play. Grogan leaned on one for a single giving Safford and Hruska a ride home after which Sutton made the third out.

The Colts were satisfied with their four counters until the fifth when Morse's generosity paved the way for two more. Hruska walked and took second on Lizzette's safe swat. Grogan bunted, the runners moving up, after which Hruska scored on Sutton's out and Lizzette followed him on Kramer's single.

Chase's Error Costly
The seventh was another big round and it all happened with two down, but Chase's wild throw did the damage. Sutton doubled and advanced on Kramer's scratch hit to short. Mike pilfered second. Thomas hit one to Chase who mistook Lizzette for his first baseman, the result being a wild

MUST MAKE GOOD OFFER FOR M'BRIDE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Clark Griffith said on Monday all he had heard of the reported trade of Mc Bride to Boston was contained in press dispatches. "While I shall not stand in the way of any player's advancement," Griffith said, "it will take a mighty good offer to get McBride away from me to act as manager of the Red Sox."

DEVORE IS TRADED

PITTSBURG, Aug. 12.—Josh Devore, middle fielder of the Cincinnati Nationals for the past few weeks, is now the property of the Philadelphia Nationals. He left the team last night for Philadelphia. Devore declared himself satisfied with the transfer.

Not an Outing.

"Ever been in Siberia?" asked the reporter.

"Er—yes," answered the distinguished Russian refugee. "I took a knouting there one summer."—Chicago Tribune.

Watching The Scoreboard

After Ames held the Pirates to four hits and gave the Reds a 3 to 1 victory in a double header, the Carnegie crowd substituted steel girders for bats and pounded seventeen out near the fence. Result, 13 to 1.

Byrne and Viox refuse to be pacified today because they only got one hit each.

Caldwell held the Browns to four hits, while Chance fans decided Mael may yet be worth twelve thousand and two players.

Baker was there again with the big stick, putting three men in ahead of his three bagger and scoring himself later.

The Naps put four across in one inning, the ninth. Hughes yielded the quartet of safeties, after relieving Engel.

Cobb's slugging drove in enough men to win the game at Boston. The Tigers totalled twelve hits.

Brooklyn will face the Giants tomorrow encouraged by President Ebbett's announcement of the purchase of $30,000 worth of players, and another thirty on tap for more good material.

MURPHY WON'T HAVE CASEY HAGERMAN

DENVER, Aug. 12.—Casey Hagerman is an enemy of organized baseball. "I wouldn't have him on my team if he was a Christy Mathewson."

The statement is that of President Charles Webb Murphy of the Chicago Cubs, made to President James C. McGill and Manager Jack Hendricks of the Denver ball club, while the local officials were discussing possible purchases by the Cub magnate in Chicago last week. McGill told about it today. Murphy's first question when the name Hagerman was brought into the baseball chat was: "Is that the Hagerman who is suing the Boston Red Sox for salary which he claims due him for last year?"

The answer was in the affirmative. "Then," said Murphy, "I will have nothing to do with him. Any man who strikes at organized baseball through the Baseball Players' fraternity strikes at the men who have done all in their power to build the game up to its present high standard. That a young ball player should attack baseball as he is doing should be sufficient to keep him out of it, and as far as I am concerned, he cannot play with my club."

NO OTHER WAY OUT OF IT, SO BEN TAKES THE COP WITH HIM!
